For example, I have an article such as this But I can see the code behind it when I do a "view source". I would like to hide it and so I don't look like a dummy. Is there a way to do this? A: You can do it in Dreamweaver. Select the text you want to hide, hit "Source" on your keyboard, and then click "Copy As Text" or right click and then "Paste As Text". Then, in the next step, select File > Revert Style and then scroll down until you see "View Source". Double click that and then you'll be left with a version of the code you initially selected. You can also do this from multiple browsers without having Dreamweaver. In Firefox, go to the menu bar and then select "View" > "Page Source". Or, hold down the Ctrl key while you're on the page that you want the code for and then hit the Enter key. BEGIN:VCALENDAR VERSION:2. ba244e880a
