Q: Implementing a combinator in Elixir I'm trying to implement a combinator in Elixir and this was my attempt so far: `defmodule MyCombinator do defmodule With do @impl true def mixin_compare(mixin) do foldl(fn(nil, [], acc), [xs | xs case acc do x when x == xs do acc else acc ++ [x] end end) end end end` I can't figure out why the output is not as expected: `> MyCombinator.With.mixin_compare  (UndefinedFunctionError) function MyCombinator.With.mixin_compare/2 is undefined or private`

A: First, you need to define the second argument to `mixin_compare` to take `[x|xs]`, not just `[xs]`. Second, `mixin_compare` is defined as: `defmodule ModuleName do @impl true @spec mixin_compare([], [], state()) :: state() def mixin_compare([], [], acc) do acc end @spec mixin_compare([head | tail], [head`

LAS VEGAS — The Warriors are in the midst of the most successful era in franchise history and Golden State is the best team in the NBA. Golden State is on the doorstep of its first three-peat as the NBA's most competitive champion and the Warriors should be favored to win it all this season. That doesn't mean there aren't concerns. All of a sudden, the offense is spotty and Stephen Curry is the target of critics. Most of those critics have zero experience of what it takes to win a championship.
