FIFA is the world's leading soccer video game franchise, and the most played sports video game franchise ever. Fans and players of all ages are part of a vibrant, global community that boasts almost three million members in a combined network of more than 160 million members. Why? Is FIFA the leading gaming franchise? A pre-tax loss of approximately $9.16 million ($19.28 million in revenue) during the first quarter of 2017 has further eroded the balance sheet of Electronic Arts Inc. (NASDAQ: EA) and put further pressure on the company to focus on its high-growth, premium games like Battlefield and FIFA. The higher development costs of the major FIFA titles for the last few years, leading up to the release of FIFA 18 last year, created an unsustainable competitive advantage as EA used the opportunities afforded by FIFA's strong global brand recognition to gain an even deeper foothold in the market. EA's ability to develop, manufacture and distribute games worldwide is complemented by the strength of its in-house console development team, keen to expose FIFA's brand to a new generation of gamers. FIFA is also enhanced by the strategic success of the Ultimate Team mode, which enables players to earn in-game coins by playing the game. Game modes for FIFA. But FIFA is getting smaller – how? EA today announced that the company will sell all remaining copies of FIFA Ultimate Team (including FIFA Ultimate Team Cheats) on August 4th, 2017, following a competitive pause in Ultimate Team games earlier this year. EA plans to continue to maintain and grow Ultimate Team and introduce new features and functionality for the FIFA community, such as new items, competitions, and game modes. What is this decision really about? This decision will have no impact on the FIFA community, including players of FIFA Ultimate Team and those that still play single-player and offline games of FIFA 18 and FIFA 19. How does the new FIFA 20 year make things better? 2017 is a new year for FIFA, with a new team on the pitch, more innovations than ever before, and a completely new FIFA 20 Season Pass. On the pitch, FIFA 20 will bring new players and the final FIFA World Cup™ team into the series – Brazil from 2014 and Germany from this year. Both squads will feature not only new iconic players and all-time greats, but also brand new talents and the highly anticipated bc9d6d6daa
